BRÅVES

"Catch Me" Music Video

This month, Trusted Source is happy to present the music video for the song "Catch Me" by the band BRÅVES. The video features actor Matthew Lillard and disability rights activist Dr. Victor Santiago Pineda. The video is an exuberant compliment to the song, with its empowering message of liberation and being yourself. Lillard and Pineda share a minimalist, art installation-esque space, which they use to dance and playfully interact with each other.

Dr. Victor Santiago Pineda is an accomplished social development scholar whose research projects explore disability in urban planning and policy. He has advised international agencies such as the World Bank and United Nations, as well as state and federal governments with programs and policies that include people with disabilities.

THREE REASONS TO WATCH

PRODUCTION VALUE

The camerawork acts as another performer, its motion and angles adding to the playful atmosphere while the editing keeps tempo with the music.

PERFORMANCE

We love these two performances: open, alive, and sensuous. There's no fear of contact, no feeling of pity. And we love the reversal of roles and how each plays off the others' aggression.

MESSAGE

The video sends a clear message of love and inclusion; of not fearing "traditional social boundaries." And it does it all visually with sight and sound.

There is so much exciting and well-made media about disability. The challenge is knowing where to find it, and how to use it.

Trusted Source is a monthly media recommendation that you can use in your trainings and classrooms, and that you can share with your networks. We hope you find these pieces as insightful and inspiring as we do.
